Dear Dr. Bourne:

Thank you for your letter of February 18 regarding your impressions of the "Frontline" program televised by PBS in February. I share your frustration over the program's treatment of the joint U.S.-Caribbean rescue operation in 1983. The program's author, Seymour Hersh, did not provide an objective or balanced appraisal of the events surrounding the events of October 25, 1983.

The positive response by the American and Grenadian people to that necessary military action was obviously not reflected in Mr. Hersh's documentary. The film did not mention the huge cache of Soviet-made arms or secret military agreements found on the island by U.S. troops following the operation. No reference was made to the requests for U.S. intervention by the only remaining constitutional authority on Grenada -- the Governor General -- and by the member countries of the Organization of Eastern Caribbean States.

Since 1983, Grenada has joined its Eastern Caribbean neighbors as an open, democratic state committed to the preservation of fundamental human freedoms and rights. I am certain historians will find the Grenada rescue operation a triumph of democracy.

The U.S. Government's position regarding the Grenada rescue operation is quite clear. I encourage you to contact the producers of "Frontline" directly to express your personal dissatisfaction with their treatment of this subject.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Howard H. Baker, Jr.

Dear Commander Bringle:

Thanks for your recent letter. I enjoyed reading your "firsthand" accounts of your experiences with the F-14 squadron. They are an excellent counterbalance to the distilled reports that cross my desk.

I want to take this opportunity to tell you that I'm especially proud to have nominated you to the Naval Academy. I know that you are enjoying your career in the Navy, and you can be sure that the American people are grateful for your service and dedication to our country. Congratulations on a job well done!

I also deeply appreciate your kind words of encouragement. My job is exciting, but yours certainly has its moments as you well know. It was good to hear from you. Warm regards.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Johnson:

Thank you for your letter of February 26 regarding S. 693, a bill to designate much of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park as a wilderness area.

I can assure you I am in full agreement with S. 693's intent of ensuring that undeveloped lands within the Park are preserved in a wild and primitive state. As you may be aware, the Department of the Interior has testified before the Congress in support of S. 693, provided it is amended to address a number of concerns. A copy of the Department's testimony is enclosed for your information.

The Administration is working on a continuing basis to see that an amended version of S. 693 or an acceptable substitute is enacted into law. I support this effort.

Thank you for communicating your views to me on this issue.

Dear Ms. Patterson:

Thank you for your letter of February 16 requesting Senator Baker's views on homelessness in America. You asked what he thinks Federal Government can do to alleviate this problem. The Administration is very concerned about the homeless and is providing support to State and local public and private organizations that aid the homeless.

Last July, President Reagan signed into law the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act. Since that time we have been moving as quickly as possible to make the programs established in the McKinney Act available to meet the needs of the homeless for shelter and other forms of assistance. A brochure describing these programs is enclosed.

As an example of these programs under the McKinney Act, the Department of Housing and Urban Development has:

- provided $68 million through the Emergency Shelter Grant program to States and eligible cities and urban counties to renovate homeless shelters; operate these shelters; and, to a limited extent, provide support services for the homeless such as employment, health, drug abuse and education services;
- awarded $59 million through the Transitional Housing Demonstration component of the Supportive Housing Demonstration program to public and private non-profit organizations to develop innovative approaches to providing transitional housing, such as half-way houses, and supportive services for homeless persons who are capable of moving to independent living. (A further $61 million will be awarded for transitional housing projects this summer);
- asked states to submit applications for $30 million in Federal funds under the program of Permanent Housing for the Handicapped Homeless to provide long-term housing for handicapped persons who are homeless, or at risk of being homeless. (Applications for these funds were due March 31);
- provided $15 million to public and private organization under the program of Supplemental Assistance for Facilities to Assist the Homeless to support comprehensive and innovative approaches on a community-wide basis to address both the immediate and long-term needs of the homeless; and

-- provided $35 million to public housing agencies for the rehabilitation of Single Room Occupancy dwelling units. First priority for occupancy of these dwellings must be given to homeless individuals.

Other Federal agencies, including particularly the Department of Health and Human Services, the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the Veterans Administration and the Department of Defense, have provided States, cities and non-profit organizations with millions of dollars in funds, services and supplies for the homeless.

Our continuing concern for the needs of the homeless is also reflected in the budget President Reagan recently sent to Congress. In that budget we are asking for almost $400 million in additional funds for Federal programs to aid the homeless in Fiscal Year 1989.

In addition to implementing funding programs for the homeless, the Secretaries of 10 Federal cabinet agencies, the Administrators of the Veterans Administration and the Federal Emergency Management Agency, and the Postmaster General are participating in the work of the Interagency Council on the Homeless, also established by the McKinney Act. The Council is undertaking a wide range of activities to improve our understanding of the needs of the homeless, to better coordinate Federal programs to aid the homeless, and to give technical assistance to State and local governments and the private sector to help them develop new programs to address the needs of their homeless populations.

I am also enclosing for your use a copy of the report on the homeless and emergency shelter prepared by the Department of Housing and Urban development in 1984. This report presents detailed information on the characteristics of the homeless population nationwide.

I hope this information proves useful to you as you prepare your research report.

Dear John:

In response to your recent inquiries, I wanted to take this opportunity to clarify the role of the President as it relates to the Ronald Wilson Reagan Republican Center.

When permission was granted in September of 1985 for the use of the President's name on the planned NRSC headquarters, it was with the caveat that it not imply approval for his participation in any fundraising activity. Obviously, his name in the title will entail it being listed on the letterhead. Although the President enthusiastically supports the construction of the Center, it is not possible for him to participate in fundraising for the building at this time, due to his other commitments to the NRSC.

I trust you understand this, John. If you should have any questions please contact Frank Donatelli at 456-7620.

Dear Mrs. Shepard:

Thank you for your letter to the Chief of Staff requesting tickets for a tour of the White House.

While Senator Baker is not able to provide tickets for tours on the dates you mentioned, the White House is open to the general public from 10:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, Tuesday through Saturday. It is closed on Sundays, Mondays, on certain holidays, and when the White House is used for special events and ceremonies. There are no ticket requirements for these tours. The visitors entrance to the White House is on East Executive Avenue, just south of Pennsylvania Avenue. There will likely be a line, so it is best to arrive early to avoid the crowds.

Dear Tommy:

Thanks very much for the invitation to Senator Baker to be a member of the Host committee for the Jim Wright Tribute.

Although Senator Baker appreciates your interest, it is the long-standing policy of the White House to decline such invitations, even when the cause is undeniably worthy. The reasons for this policy include a desire to avoid any appearance of using public position for private gain as well as a recognition that charges of favoritism would be inevitable given the impossibility of accepting all of the many worthwhile requests White House staff members receive. I am sure you will understand.

Dear Mack:

I had our experts take a look at your proposal on Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (UAVs). They concur with your assessment -- we do not now have an internationally coordinated approach to fielding UAVs, and need one. Recognizing the practical and political difficulties associated with rationalizing UAV requirements in NATO while expeditiously trying to field emerging technologies, they suggest the following:

- The best place to grapple with the complexities of this issue is within the CNAD Multi-Service Ad Hoc Group on Follow-on Forces Attack.
- Consideration should be given to integrating UAVs into the new Conventional Armaments Planning System (CAPS) as an early test case.
- Within the U.S. defense community, DOD is in the process of centralizing the management and execution of U.S. UAV programs with a view toward expediting user experience with currently available systems and capabilities.
- UAVs would appear to fit well into Secretary Carlucci's Competitive Strategy approach to allocating defense resources -- while noting that the next step should be to maximize field experience with available technologies to aid in educating the operators and help the process of matching the technology to specific military tasks.

I am confident you can count on active U.S. participation in this effort as NATO moves it forward. We share our Allies' felt need to be more efficient with our available defense resources, and this appears to be a worthy area to pursue.

Warm regards.

Dear Dr. Myers:

I was so pleased to learn that Oliver Springs Elementary School recently was awarded the "National A+ School Award from Instructor Magazine. Your school can take great pride in this recognition, reflecting as it does your success in providing your students with a well-rounded, quality education.

There has been much talk recently about the decline in our nation's standards of education. With that in mind, it is all the more gratifying to hear of a school that continually strives to be the best. The combined leadership and commitment of the school board, administration, faculty, students, and community groups are an excellent example of how great things can be accomplished when people work together toward the same goal.

Dear Mr. Hartley:

Thank you for your letter to Senator Baker requesting an interview for the Coro Foundation's Fellows Class during their trip to Washington.

Regrettably, the demands of his schedule will not permit him the pleasure of meeting with your group. However, he hopes that the Fellows will have an interesting and informative visit to our Nation's Capital.

With Senator Baker's best wishes,

Sincerely,

Lura Nell Mitchell

Dear Reverend Baker:

It gives me great pleasure to send congratulations to Parrans Chapel Baptist Church on the occasion of your 100th anniversary.

You should be very proud of the service and dedication which your special ministry has provided to many generations of southwestern Tennesseans. As you reach this impressive milestone, may you have a truly memorable celebration.

With my warm best wishes to everyone at Parrans Chapel Baptist Church now and for the years ahead,

Sincerely,

Howard H. Baker, Jr.
Chief of Staff to the President

Dear Mr. Lee:

Thank you for your letter to Senator Baker requesting a Congressional appointment to the United States Naval Academy.

Unfortunately, because Senator Baker is no longer in the U.S. Senate, he is unable to make such appointments. I can only suggest that you contact members of your congressional delegation for assistance.

With Senator Baker's best wishes,

Sincerely,

Sue Walkup
Special Assistant
